

African Drumming Team Activity

Imagine a large group of people banging instruments. It's chaos! This is how this drumming workshop will start. At the end it will be harmony, everyone will know where they fit in and what their contribution is to the final piece. What happens in between is exceptional facilitation, a little co-ordination and an amazing team building experience for those taking part.

This percussion workshop has been specifically developed as a corporate team building activity. The facilitators take suggestions from the group to create harmony. The result is never the same twice.
